Five generations reunited in valley today

Mabel Soit, 87, will preside over five generations of Bay Area residents at a Livermore reunion today.

LIVERMORE — A rare and happy reunion is taking place today in the clubhouse of Sunrise Mobile Home Park.

Dick and Bev Paulson of Sundance Drive are hosting a big family gathering where five generations will be partying — from Great - great - grandma Mabel Soit, 87, down to tiny Heath David Paulson, who showed up on this globe just 17 days ago.

Though he's too small to appreciate it, Heath will be greeted by four great-grandmas and two grandmothers as well.

The infant is the son of David and Debbie Fox Paulson of Livermore, and the first grandchild of Dick and Beverly Paulson. Coincidentally, David was just 17 days old when, 22 years ago, another family reunion was held with five generations present.

David soared to celebrity 10 months later, being chosen as Gerber baby foods' Baby of the Month. An old family photo shows the chubby - cheeked baby listing to one side under the weight of a big crown and red cape, while clutching a trophy..

There are lots of old family photos, books of them, at the Paulsons' and plenty more in the ancestral family homes in San Leandro. The Soit side of the family first settled in that area in 1826, exactly 150 years ago.

Family history traces the Soits back to Boston and then to Portugal. On the Soares side — Bev Paulson's father's family— they first immigrated to Hawaii to take up a life of fishing similar to the existence they knew in Portugal. Later, they moved to San Leandro and started small businesses.

Bev's godmother, May Pimentel, was said to have been born on a boat between Hawaii and California. Because the boat was closer to Hawaii than to the United States, her birth certificate said she was born in the islands.

So many Portuguese went first to Hawaii and then to San Leandro that an entire street was called "Kanaka Street" in their honor. There's even a statue in that town dedicated to the Portuguese immigrants who contributed to the local heritage.

"Cherry orchards and a two - block main street" is the way Bev describes the area a few generations ago. Her father, Joseph Soares, has been president of the Board of Directors of the San Leandro Boys' Club and has been active in many other civic affairs. He owned a local dump and eventually started the S&R Pick - up Service.

At the turn of the century, Hayward was being settled as enthusiastically by Spanish people, West Oakland by the Italian immigrants, as San Leandro was becoming the home of Portuguese.

The Soares family exploded three generations ago when Bev's grandmother May Soares had 15 children. Meanwhile, Mabel Soit, who will be the oldest guest at today's party, had a modest four offspring.

Will all 67 surviving Soits, and a similar troupe of Soares, be converging at the clubhouse today?

Heavens, no!" Bev gasps. "We're just having a small party — 40 or so."

She and daughter Cindy, 19, were up to their elbows in potatoes and macaroni yesterday as they prepared the salads ahead of time.

They know all the tricks for cooking for crowds. "With all the family weddings we've had," Bev says, "we've only had one catered. And we don't have small weddings!"

Tull awaits land ruling on Zone bid

Paul Tull, the would - be Zone 7 candidate, will learn Tuesday whether his status as a non - property holder will keep his name off the June 8 ballot.

Tull has challenged a provision in the water district code that requires candidates for the Zone 7 board of directors be real property owners.

Tull rents his home in Livermore.

He claims that the requirement is unconstitutional, violating the 14th amendment guarantee of equal protection under the law.

Zone 7 has relayed Tull's candidacy papers to the Alameda County Registrar James Riggs. But Riggs must wait for guidance from the County Counsel Richard Moore before he can place Tull's name on the ballot.

Moore said Friday he will announce his recommendation Tuesday at the Board of Supervisors meeting.

Tull took his case before the supervisors last Tuesday, but the board was unable to help him. Only the State Legislature which wrote the district code can revise the law.

Moore said he will advise the board and the registrar whether he believes the provision is constitutional.

Moore would not say Friday what his decision would be. He said his staff was in the process of researching recent Supreme Court decisions on the subject.

An American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) lawyer in the San Francisco office said he thought the provision would be upheld.

He cited a 1973 case, Salyer Land Company versus Tulare Lake Basin Storage District, in which the United States Supreme Court held that a voting requirement based on land owned and the amount of taxes paid is constitutional.

Justice William Rehnquist wrote the majority decision which the ACLU attorney said is nearly identical to Tull's case.

The decision overturned a 1969 Warren Court ruling in Kramer versus Union Free School District (Virginia). The Warren decision held that voting privileges could not be limited to taxpayers within the school district.

Zone 7 attorney Kelvin Booty told the zone directors last Wednesday that the question hinges on whether there is any reason for having such a requirement for candidacy.

Booty said he knew of no California case in which a similar requirement in a special district had been overturned.

So, while legal experts and county officials ponder the requirement, medically retired electrical technician Tull sits and waits.

"Things are happening," said Tull, "and I'm letting them happen."

Characterizing himself as an "optimistic pessimist," Tull said he would carry the issue as far as he can. — by Karen Boyle

City delays zoning action

PLEASANTON — A public hearing previously scheduled for tomorrow on the Stoneson Corporation's request to rezone 22 acres from condominiums to single family homes has been continued to April 12.

The city council will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the council chambers, 30 W. Angela St., and face a relatively light agenda.

Director of Engineering Services Don Sooby will give a report on the status of bicycle trails in the city and the council will hear a request for a holding tank for the New Life Fellowship Church.

Rep. Pete Stark pledges support on historic site

PLEASANTON — Congressman Fortney (Pete) Stark promised yesterday all the help he could give to securing federal funds for restoration of the Kottinger Adobe.

The adobe, built in 1852, is tucked away toward the rear of a fence-hiddenproperty on Ray Street between First Street and Main Street.

The building once served as this city's jail and iron bars on the windows still attest to that use. Local historian Herb Hagemann, who toured the property yesterday with Stark and a small local delegation, told the congressman that a tunnel once led from the adobe to the old court house on Main Street. The tunnel was necessary so that friends of prisoners didn't attack the sheriff between the courthouse and the jail, said Hageman.

The adobe also was used as a barn. Hagemann pointed out the area to the Stark and the others in the entourage: City Manager Bill Edgar, City Councilman William Herlihy and James Trimingham of the historical society.

The first step for Stark will be to have the federal government place the building on the National Register of Historical Places. Once that is done, the restoration project would qualify for matching federal funds.

The property on Ray Street has two buildings: the Kottinger Adobe in the middle of the property and a much later building behind it which will be torn down.

Stark said he could envision a restoration which would permit the public to tour the building, though probably not make any utilitarian use of it. Restoration will mean keeping many of the old beams and structure intact, so the building probably could take only minimal wiring and heating, said Stark.

Trimingham said that it could take about $1,000 to $20,000 to restore the old building, assuming volunteer labor and materials are used. Stark toured the adobe at the invitation of Herlihy, who has been active in trying to secure federal funding for its restoration.

PO contracting officer hears of fence protest

PLEASANTON — "Barbed wire is controversial in other places, too," the regional post office's contracting officer for the new Pleasanton post office told The Times yesterday.

James Wilson said that it is news to him that Pleasantonites are upset over the three strands of barbed wire on top of the eight - foot fence.

Mayor Robert Philcox and Planning Commission Chairman Walt Wood have launched critical sallies against the fence. The planning commission has written the project's architect, Richard Tanaka of San Jose, to complain about it. Tanaka is expected to refer the complaint to the post office.

So far the complaint has not reached Wilson, he said. "I'd have to be involved in any decision on the fence if there is going to be a change in the existing contract," said Wilson.

"I can't comment on how we will solve the problem. I haven't heard the facts about it. This is the first I have heard about the controversy," he said.

Told that the planning commission also dislikes the redwood slats which makes the fence seem even more massive than it is, Wilson said usually the complaint is the other way around. Most cities think that the redwood slats add beauty and help screen out vehicles behind the fence.

The postal inspectors who are responsible for post office security usually ask for eight - foot fences with barbed wire on top, said Wilson.

"We try to work it out in advance," Wilson stated. Pleasanton saw copies of the proposed fence, but there were no redwood slats and no barbed wire showing. Wilson said they may have been missing because the renderings are not greatly detailed.

Murray meets Monday

Board to decide bond issue fate

Murray School District trustees will take action Monday night on the $1 million bond issue now scheduled for the June 8 ballot.

Board members convene at 8 p.m. in Dublin School multi - purpose room, 7997 Vomac Rd., Dublin.

But before the board gets to this crucial item, they are scheduled to accept the canvass of votes from the March 2 election. Linda Jeffery will then be sworn in as trustee and the board, with Mrs. Jeffery seated, will then hold the first of two closed personnel sessions.

First major item after the closed session involves receiving of the Murray Teachers' Association contract proposal for 1976-77.

Also slated to come before the soon - to - be full strength board are reports on the Late Childhood Education Program and the district's setback last Monday at the hands of the State Allocations Board.

The latter has now put the district in a position of having to seek other methods if they hope to build a school on the Dolan site or any other site.

Specifically, the district sought approximately $425,000 in funding. They had hoped the state would approve partial if not full funding.

Instead, they received a flat turndown.

As late as just 13 days ago, some board members and administration apparently felt they had a reasonably good chance of getting partial if not full funding approval.

At the last board meeting, business manager Phillip Chubb commented that if the state approved only half a school, the district could withdraw the bond measure.

He went on to say, according to minutes of that meeting, that next March would be a better time for the elction, and that the school tax next year would remain the same or go down a little.

However, as the State Allocations Board brought out in denying the funding Monday, the district has been dropping in enrollment for at least the past three years and is presently 1,100 students below its, projected estimate for 1976.

John McManus, of the State Office of Local Assistance, opined that the district would need to count between 700 and 2,000 new housing starts to regain full parity in the state building program.

James Aitken, district architect, had reported at the last regular board meeting that the cost for the "total building" (on the Dolan site) would now be $4,844,120 and $3,266,004 for one-half of the building. Aitken said the cost had increased 20 per cent since 1974, according to the state formula.

The board has until the end of this month in which to take action on withdrawing the ballot measure or placing an argument on the ballot if it is to be kept alive.

Jury finds Patty guilty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst was found guilty Saturday of charges that she willingly took part in a terrorist bank robbery.

After the verdict was read, U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter told jurors: "As to the verdict you've arrived at, it is well within the evidence of this case and will be accepted."

The 22-year-old Miss Hearst was sitting in a holding cell at the courthouse when she learned that the jury had reached a verdict.

Jurors, in their swift verdict, apparently accepted the calm, methodical case presented by U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr.

Browning, whose courtroom demeanor had been a lowkey contrast to the theatrical Bailey, had left jurors Thursday with the admonition to follow the dictates of justice — "That guilt not escape nor innocence suffer."

The verdict was read in a packed courtroom. In a tense atmosphere, the foreman of the jury — William Wright — handed the verdict envelope to the judge's crier, Howard Frank, who handed it to the court clerk, then to Judge Carter.

Also facing Miss Hearst are state robbery, assault and kidnaping charges stemming from a shooting incident in Los Angeles one month after the April 15, 1974, robbery at the Hibernia Bank here. Those charges carry a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

Judge Carter set sentencing for April 19 on the San Francisco charges.

The jury's decision ended one of the most dramatic criminal trials in memory. In the end, it came down to which of two portraits of Patricia Hearst the jury found more believable.

Her defense sought throughout to portray her as a terrified kidnaping victim forced into a terrorist pose by her ruthless abductors. Her participation in the holdup was a matter of "dying or survival," Miss Hearst's lawyer said in his closing argument.

To the prosecution, she was a scheming liar whose defense of "she didn't mean it" did not ring true. "Judge this case on the evidence," Browning told the jurors Thursday.

The jury of seven women and five men returned its verdict at 4:45 p.m. PST after deliberating 12 hours in two days. The case went to the panel on Friday, eight weeks after the trial began.

Vandals deal $1,400 loss to Dublin business

DUBLIN — Rock-throwing vandals broke three large windows and cut telephone lines Thursday, causing approximately $1,400 damage to Association - Sterling Films offices at 6644 Sierra Lane.

A Sheriff's Dept. spokesman said three four - by - eight foot plate glass windows worth $300 each had been smashed. Large rocks used to break the glass were found inside the building.

Vandals also cut telephone wires leading to junction boxes, causing $500 damage.

An investigation into the attack is continuing.

Man arrested at scene of burglary attempt

PLEASANTON — Police responding to a silent alarm at Kirth Furniture at 4321 First St. early Friday arrested a man walking out of the building and booked him on suspicion of attempted burglary.

Kenneth Paul Yanez, 18, of 465 Division St. in Pleasanton, was booked on and later confessed to attempted burglary, police said Friday.

Officers surrounded the store and reported hearing noises coming from inside. A few moments later, a man walked out through a back door and was immediately arrested.

Yanez reportedly told police he planned to take furniture from the store, but once inside he changed his mind and walked outside where he was apprehended.

He wouldn't wait for police

LIVERMORE — When Travis Gainous had the desk clerk at Granada Bowl call police to report his car battery stolen, he was told it would take police at least a half - hour to respond.

So, to speed up the process, Gainous allegedly called police and reported two men fighting at the bowling alley.

Police promptly arrived and arrested Gainous for filing a false report of a crime and r isting police.

There are no suspects in the theft of Ganinous' battery.

Burglars take color TV, cash from Black Avenue home

Police said thieves apparently entered through an unlocked garage door and got into the house through an adjoining door. Missing items include an RCA 19-inch color television and $30 in currency.

SR trustees ponder California Hi plans

SAN RAMON — Final plans for additions to California High School will undergo further scrutiny as the result of the San Ramon Valley Unified School District board meeting this past week.

Following a comment from Mike Wahlig of the San Ramon Homeowners Association concerning openness of a media center to corridors, the staff told board members of changes they intended to include.

Trustee Joseph DeHope said, "We have had more trouble with California High School than with any other school we have put up in recent years. I want to see completed plans before I give approval on any final plans."

The architect working with the project commented, "I am concerned about this building. I have been with it for 10 years, and part of this phase will be to correct the problems there now."

Earlier, final drawings for the new South intermediate school site were presented to the board and approved.

The new school will be located on 16.7 acres bounded by Pine Valley Road, Broadmoor Road, Pacific Park and residential property.

James Solberg, director of secondary education, said. "This will be a school of which the children in the south area can be proud."

The building will be located about 100 feet back from Pine Valley Road, and will be raised 9½ feet above the sidewalk level.

Hall learned of the program and donated eight engraving pens to the homeowners. The pens can be signed out for personal use by calling Pat at 837-1275.

Police brutality charged by Livermore neighborhood

LIVERMORE — A group of residents in the vicinity of 552 Enos Way have reacted angrily to an arrest incident by Livermore police Thursday night.

The arrest involved Robert Lankford of Livermore, who was stopped by Sgt. Phillip Johnson at 8:15 p.m. in front of 552 Enos Way for "exhibiting speed" in his Chevy van.

Witnesses claimed they saw at least five police officers beating Lankford. Two witnesses who allegedly went to Lankford's aid, Bill Bruce and Nick Chamberlain, were given citations on the spot for interfering with an arresting officer.

Lankford had cuts and bruises on his face following the incident. Angry bystanders were said to have called Congressman Pete Stark's office and Mayor Helen Tirsell and Vice-mayor Dale Turner complaining.

Two citizens went to the police department offices Friday to talk about the incident, according to police Cptain Joe Nichols.

The police version of the story claimed that Lankford assaulted Sgt. Johnson. Lankford was charged with battery on a police officer, a felony, and resisting arrest. He pleaded "not guilty" Friday in Livermore - Pleasanton Municipal Court to both counts.

Friends of Lankford claimed that Lankford had asked the police officer for his flashlight so he could find the registration which the officer allegedly asked. Allegedly the officer either misunderstood Lankford or didn't like what he said and supposedly hit him first, according to Lankford's friends.

Amador trustees to review

District teachers state pact terms

(This is the first of two articles on the contract proposal for 1976-77 presented by the Amador Valley Secondary Educators Association recently. The 70-page document will be reviewed by the Amador school board Tuesday night at the District Educational Center in Pleasanton).

The contract proposal presented by Amador district teachers recently contains 37 sections dealing with everything from "definitions" to "personal freedom," teaching hours, class size, teaching conditions, certificated employeevaluations, school calendar and salaries.

It'll be this document and the administration's mandatory response, in public session, that will form the basis for negotiations this spring.

The entire process is somewhat akin to shooting clay pigeons — the teachers putting up the initial "flyers" and the administration seeking to shoot the excesses from the sky. The surviving pieces land on the taxpaying public!

Today, we'll look at those sections on school calendar, class size and teaching hours.

Amador district teachers believe the number of teaching days should be 175, as provided in the Education Code. There would be eight state school holidays, 14 certificated non-duty days and no teacher workdays.

School would begin on Sept. 7 and close on June 8 in 1976-77, according to the AVSEA proposal.

On class size, the proposal section states, "In no event shall the student-teacher ratio exceed 24 to 1 with no class section larger than 28 without prior written agreement between the teacher and the principal.

Teachers ask that the board agree that "efforts shall be continued to seek and use textbooks and supplementary reading materials which contain the contribution of minority groups to the history, scientific and social development of the United States, which contains relevant texts and materials which have been requested by the teachers in the school."

Amador teachers also want the following placed at their disposal;

Sufficient typing, duplicating, stencil and mimeograph equipment and clerical personnel to prepare instructional materials. In addition, they ask that the board provide each teacher with a separate desk with a lockable drawer, suitable closet space to store coast and other personnel articles, adequate chalkboard space in every classroom, a complete and unabridged dictionary in every classroom, adequate storage space in each classroom for instructional materials, adequate basic supplies (books, paper, pencils, chalk and erasers) and the following non-teaching related items;

Lunchroom, restroom and lavatory facilities exclusively for teacher use and at least one room, appropriately furnished, which shall be reserved for use as a faculty lounge. Provision for such facilities will be made in all future buildings.

Teachers also want private telephone facilities, adequate off street parking protected against vandalism, and properly maintained and identified as being exclusively for teachers.

Under the section on teaching hours, AVSEA has proposed that teachers have no more than 1,250 minutes of student contact per week. This means that such teachers shall have no more than 25 teaching periods per week. They have also requested 500 minutes or 10 unassigned period per two weeks for preparation and planning.

With respect to faculty meetings, the board representative who calls such meetings shall provide teachers with an agenda for the meeting at least one day before such meeting is held and shall also permit teachers either individually or through a liaison committee, to place items on the agenda.

The concluding article will deal with other key sections of the contract proposal presented by Amador teacher representatives.

City balks on Longview land plan

PLEASANTON — Dr.Howard Long ran into another hurdle in his long drive to add the second addition to his Longview development last week.

Planning Director Robert Harris refused to accept a map on the addition, claiming he needs a legal opinion from City Attorney Ken Scheidig about whether or not an Environmental Impact Report must be filed on the development.

Long's attorney, Gil Maines, told The Times that earlier litigation between the city and Long resolved the question, as far as Maines is concerned.

"Judge John Sparrow said we didn't need to have an Environmental Impact Report filed since we already had a map filed on Longview prior to the state's requirment for Environmental Impact Reports," said Maines.

"Also, there is a section of the California Environmental Quality Act which says that if the first portion of the development is finished by a certain date, no EIR is required on the second phase. It not only was finished by that date, but we even had a map on phase two which at one time had been approved," said Maines.

"As long as a new map doesn't cause any more environmental damage than the old one, you don't need and EIR," he said.

Scheidig, on the other hand, interprets Judge Sparrow's ruling differently, said Maines. The judge vacated an interlocutory order when he made a previous ruling that the street proposed for Longview was objectionable, said Maines. Scheidig contends that when the interlocutory order was vacated, it also wiped out the effect of the earlier map and therefore a new EIR is in order, said Maines.

Maines thinks that on the contrary, a finding of fact was involved in the matter and the judge's order did not wipe out the map's validity on the point.

Ex-Mayor Gerton tagged for honor

PLEASANTON — The late Mayor Bernard Gerton will be honored by the city in the dedication of Vintage Hills Park, the city council decided last week.

The council made the decision unanimously after hearing a motion by Councilman Frank Brandes Gerton's name was suggested as a name for the park by Councilman Ken Mercer, when he was serving on the park and recreation commission a few weeks ago.

Vintage Hills residents were polled by their homeowners' association about whether the park should be called Vintage Hills, Bernard Gerton or Vintner Park. The homeowners voted nearly unanimously for Vintage Hills Park.

Gerton was active for a long time in civic affairs, serving on the city council during two different eras. After his retirement from the city council, he remained active by helping lead Citizens Against Redevelopment last year. He died last November from a heart attack at 62.

Hirst heads Bicentennial

PLEASANTON — Brad Hirst has been named chairman of the Pleasanton Bicentennial Commission to replace Kenneth R. Mercer, who was recently elected to the City Council.

New mayor Robert Philcox has also announced that Joyce Getty has been appointed as financial chairman of the Bicentennial Commission to replace Hirst.

At the same time, Philcox commended the Bicentennial group on their "outstanding activities in the city."

Mormons soponsor genealogy meet

By REINA WHITNEY

Just the thought of registering all the people on this planet boggles the mind. But to think of tracking down all the people who have ever lived on Earth since its creation is enoughto totally stagger the imagination.

Yet this is precisely what the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints (Mormons) is trying to do, has been doing and will continue to do as a deep religious commitment.

Because of their church's belief that everyone who has ever been born should have a choice of accepting the gospel of Jesus Christ even after death, living members of the Mormon Church are baptized regularly on behalf of the deceased. It is this continuing search into birth and death records, that has incidentally led the Mormons into becoming the world's foremost genealogical experts.

David Cummings has traced his ancestors back to the Tenth Century. He will co-chair the seminar planned March 27 by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Saturday, March 27 they will be giving us all the benefit of their expertise by sponsoring a Genealogy Seminar from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at their Livermore meeting house at 950 Mocho St. This promises to be a first in the valley and will feature prominent lecturers and researchers from the local area. Also present will be Lyman Platt and John Van Weeset from the renowned Genealogical Society of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Many areas of genealogical interest will be discussed, including research fundamentals, organizing records, using branch libraries, family history, personal history and other subjects. Geographic areas for research will be Germany, Austria, Sweden, Wales, Ireland, France, Great Britain, Southern and Eastern United States and many others.

A nominal charge of $1.50 for the seminar syllabus will be asked if you pre-register. There will be a charge of $2 for the syllabus at the seminar because of the limited number to be available that morning. Lunch will be served for an additional fee of $1.

Dr. A. Gordon Larsen is acting as chairman of reservations and you may mail them to his home, 5023 Blackbird Way, Pleasanton, or call him for any additional information — 846-2745.

Dr. Larsen, a dentist who maintains offices in Pleasanton, and Fellow church - member David Cummings, will co - chair the event sponsored by the Pleasanton California Stake, as the local Morman church is identified.

Both men fervently believe that everyone, regardless of religion, should look into their pedigree and learn more about their genealogical background. Dr. Larsen believes it gives the individual some basic values and identity. His heritage, good or bad, has been responsible for making him the personality he is.

Both men have worked on tracing their own family trees. Dr. Larsen's wife, Marge, has determined she is a descendent of Governor Bradford of New Salem, Conneticut, who lived during the times of our early pilgrim settlers. And his own mother's line has been traced back to Denmark as far as 1691.

Mr. Cummings' constant delving into his family's heritable background has made him somewhat of a respected expert in the field of genealogy. His impressive private collection of genealogical records represents a lifetime of fervent research into the "Cummings line." His grandfather, a professional genealogist, collaborated with a Reverend Moore and wrote "The Cummings Book of Descendants."

David Cummings, a Berkeley native, has a friend, John Cummings, with whom he grew up. Until they were roommates in college they didn't realize that they were actually third cousins, a fact determined from "The Cummings Book."

One line of the "Comyn" or Cummings name goes back five generations, beyond William the Conqueror of 1000 A.D. Although David Cummings' main interest in this constant genealogical delving is doctrinal, one can readily understand his fascination with his ancestral hunt.

According to Mr. Cummings, the Mormon Church will microfilm any record of birth (Church, Court, family Bible, etc.) free of charge and will even supply the owner with a copy so that they may be stored within their vaults in Salt Lake City.

The Church set out to microfilm every record of birth on the face of the earth in 1946. By 1973 they had 80 cameras going full time in various parts of the world. Well over 90 per cent of the birth records of the New England state have been microfilmed.

Their collection is awesome. By 1973, 800,000 hundred-foot rolls of microfilm were stored in the solid granite mountain vaults, 700 feet under the ground. Five thousand rolls are being received into the Salt Lake City center every month. There they are kept under carefully guarded conditions with temperature controlls to avoid their destruction.

These records are available to anyone who would care to research their own genealogical backgrounds. The Oakland Temple will provide you with the proper forms, help you send for your records and then help you interpret the information — all for the price of a postage stamp.

The local seminar on March 27 will also provide you with the same help and guidance. The Mormons are anxious for as many people, regardless of their religious affiliations, to become interested in tracking their genealogy, so that they not miss anyone in their monumental Baptismal fervor. The seminar, although handled by religious leaders, will not follow a religious theme, and all are welcome to attend.

Livermore BART director asks state solon support

Bay Area Rapid Transit District Director Robert Allen of Livermore is urging valley Assemblyman Floyd Mori to back the BART board's proposal to extend indefinitely the half-cent sales tax paid in the three district counties.

In a letter sent last week, Allen asks Mori to back the BART board's proposal instead of one advocated by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

The financially strapped rapid rail district wants all revenue from the sales tax increment allocated to BART. The MTC proposal would give BART all the funds through June, 1979, but only 65 percent thereafter. The remaining 35 percent would go to AC Transit and the San Francisco Muni.

The two bus districts also face operating cost deficits.

"BART, unlike other transit agencies, has no permanent tax base from which to fund operating deficits," Allen argues. Fare box revenues originally were projected to cover operating costs for planned operations in San Mateo and Marin Counties.

The Livermore director also claims the loss in sales tax revenue will hold the district to a five day, fourteen hour "commuter operation." The $1.6 billion investment thus would be idle 58 percent of the time.

"A sales tax of $5 per $1,000 of purchases seems a fair price to keep (the) $640 per capita investment going and to allow night and Saturday service," Allen charges.

He also argues that 10 of the MTC's 16 members are from outside the BART district and hence the commission "is not a proper forum to allocate a tax levied solely within the district."

Commissioners, he continues, are appointed, but BART directors are elected. "Elected officials can be held accountable by the public," Allen adds.

While the sales tax is charged uniformly in the district, AC and the Muni "cover only a limited area," he concludes.

The MTC carries a State mandate to form a regional transportation plan that requires the guaranteed continuance of all three transportation systems.

Commissioners have said they do not feel their proposed allocation system will curtail night service, although they are hesitant about expanding the technically troubled, rapid rail system to weekends.

ABAG delays new action on revised Livermore GP

BEREKELEY — The Executive Board of the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) has voted to postpone action on the City of Livermore's General Plan to its April meeting.

The Board was scheduled to consider a set of policy recommendations made by the ABAG Regional Planning Committee (RPC) at a meeting Thursday night but continued the matter at the suggestion of Susanne Wilson, chairperson of the RPC.

Consideration now is contingent on ABAG's receipt of the final, revised copy of Livermore's General Plan — a document the city expects to have ready in a few weeks, according to Planning Director George Musso.

The RPC earlier this month presented its recommendations directly to Livermore on the General Plan and passed on a set of recommendations for Alameda and Contra Costa Counties Boards of Supervisors and the Alameda County Local Agency Formation Commission to the Executive Board.

All RPC recommendations were based on the final content of the city's General Plan since Livermore officials kept ABAG advised of the document's revisions.

The RPC recommendations, which now are scheduled to be considered by the Board next month, advise Livermore to adopt urban limit lines consistent with the present outer city limits and permit increased densities within already developed and undeveloped areas of the city.

It also suggests that in lieu of a specific numerical limit on growth (the Plan incorporates a maximum 2 per cent annual growth rate), Livermore should use a phased plan or development criteria that relate timing and location of development to the availability of municipal facilities and services.

The RPC recommendations for the counties and LAFCO were made because "actions by Livermore alone do not insure that development in the Las Positas Valley will be consistent with regional policies in the Las Positas review," Wilson explained to the Board.

To the counties, the policies suggest forbidding the creation of new urban service entities or the extention of existing ones outside adopted spheres of influence or urban service entities in the valley; elimination from urban service districts all lands that are both undeveloped and unincorporated, and elimination of all unincorporated "islands" located within existing incorporated areas.

To LAFCO, the policies recommend the prohibition of development outside existing urbanized areas without annexation to valley cities and the rezoning of all unincorporated lands now in non-urban uses to an agricultural designation with a specific minimum lot size limitation.

Valley Christian Center offering English tutoring

DUBLIN — Success...or failure?

"For many adults and teenagers in this area, learning to speak, read and write English will make the difference!" says Sally Dilgard, director of the Valley Christian Center School of Literacy.

Mrs. Dilgard has seen hundreds of local people learn the English language and has even taught English-speaking illiterates how to read.

A person needs a fairly high level of reading ability nowadays to make it through life, says Mrs. Dilgard. From street signs to want ads to income tax forms, it all takes reading skill.

"You can be the instrument through which people who do not speak English as their native language, or Americans who read at less than fifth-grade level, can be taught these skills," the veteran tutor promises.

"Three hours a week of your time given as a volunteer tutor can change the future for an adult or young person."

Mrs. Dilgard will be signing up interested teenagers and adults for a training course which will enable them to tutor others in the arts of speaking and reading English.

The 30-hour course begins at Valley Christian Center School of Literacy, 7400 San Ramon Road, Dublin, at 7 p.m. Monday evening, March 29.

Classes will continue Monday and Thursday evenings after that date for five weeks, three hours each evening.

Cost of the course, including tutors' textbooks, is $17.

The world-famous "Laubach Method" is used by tutors, involving tightly structured programs of books and exercises.

Mental health progress good but fund crisis now looms

HAYWARD — Mental health services in Alameda County have "come a long way," and while more needs to be done, it appears State and County funds are drying up.

That was the conclusion reached Friday at a symposium on mental health services in Alameda County. The program "We've Come A Long Way, Baby ... But Do you Know?" was sponsored jointly by the Office of Assemblyman Floyd Mori, the Mental Health Association of Alameda County, members of the Mental Health Advisory Board and Mental Health Committees, and 14 community mental health organizations.

Alameda County, compared to the ten largest California counties, ranks first in unemployment (13 per cent in January), fifth in population, and fourth in the State's "index of need."

But in mental health funding, Alameda County ranks seventh, eighth or ninth, measured by gross, net or per capita revenue.

And Loren Enoch, Alameda County administrator, said that situation is unlikely to improve, and may get worse.

The county currently contributes 22 per cent of the mental health budget for the county. Federal and state funds account for 61 per cent. Seventeen per cent is collected by third party insurance and Medi-Cal.

The governor's 1976-77 mental health allocation statewide is 5.1 per cent higher than it was in 1975-76.

But Enoch said labor, non-labor, malpractice insurance, and overhead costs are bound to rise at a higher rate, effectively decreasing the mental health budget allocation.

"There is no way for the county to stay within its budget and not have an adverse effect on mental health," Enoch said. "It will be hard to fund the services at the present level, and in actuality the funding will decline."

Dr. Susan Mandel, director of Alameda County Mental Health Services, knows the financial reality that will confront her agency next year.

"The State wants Alameda County to reduce its patient load in Napa (State Hospital), and at the same time it has set priorities of preventive services and children's needs," said Dr. Mandel. "It is impossible for us to do both."

At least, Dr. Mandel said, Alameda County attempts to offer a range of mental health services, from community care to institutionalization. Other counties, she said, care only for the chronically mentally ill.

Reviewing current needs services in Alameda County, Dr. Mandel said the programs were designed to meet general needs, "but are not doing so as well as we'd like."

She presented a list of goals for the coming years:

- To care for the chronically ill with a wide range of treatment sources.
- To bolster the board and care network, training personnel in residential care situations.
- To provide more services for children, many of whom are on waiting lists to receive treatment.
- To provide more funds for bilingual and bicultural services.
- To focus on preventive services.
- To develop mental health services for the aging (currently 1 per cent of the caseload, but 14 per cent of the county's population).
- To expand affirmative action efforts within the mental health program.

But as County Administrator Enoch said, "We can talk all we want about programs, but in the final analysis there has to be dollars."

Without funds, legislators were told, the prognosis for mental health in Alameda County is not good.

County planners release valleywide service report

Alameda County Bureau

County planning department officials this month released the latest edition of their valley general plan review — a background report on valley-wide public services.

Running the gamut from sewers and the water supply to solid waste collection and transportation problems, the 77 page opus traces inter-related agencies as they deal with various public services.

An update of the "North Livermore Area Plan Amendment Consideration Environmental Impact Report" released in October, 1974, it draws heavily on studies and reports prepared by and for the cities, the federal Environmental Protection Agency, the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVMA) and the county planning department's involvement with individual projects.

It identifies the major factors which presently affect the provision of public services in the Livermore-Amador Valley Planning Unit.

The report contains maps outlining the two "spheres of influence" in the valley, as well as the water supply service areas and major facilities, sewage treatment plant service areas, fire protection service areas and facilities, school districts, park and recreation areas and major government owned lands.

The text identifies most of the agencies and organizations, both public and private, that supply services in the valley, and discusses their functions and service areas.

The report will be used "to enable legislative agencies, organizations and citizens to understand the data used in preparation of plan alternatives and for use in acutual determination of which plan alternative will best fit the needs of the community and utilize both natural and human resources to the greatest possible extent."

Taxing doctors and other woes

Everytime local government is faced with a budget deficit, somebody comes up with the bright idea to "levy more taxes on commerce and industry." City of Livermore has gone that idea one better by now reviving an old ordinance code which would levy a muni tax on all doctors having any business whatsoever in that town, including all the patients bedded down at Valley Memorial Hospital.

The doctors — faced with either double taxation or split bookkeeping — don't like it. The other professions aren't far behind.

Acknowledging that cities are hard pressed these days to make ends meet, we would still hope that the ruling fathers would move with extreme caution, and enlightened vision, in this business of business taxes. It is one thing to levy a fair license commensurate with services rendered; it is something else to start driving commerce out of town (or, more likely, discouraging new ones from coming in) because of a lot of "nuisance taxes."

It isn't always the dollar amount involved, so much as the red tape, the additional bookkeeping forced on the small business, the bureaucratic harassment. From employee withhold taxes to union welfare payments, claims for company - paid dental care to new the new OSHA safety standards, the operation of any small business these days is one, long governmental nightmare. And it is often the break point for a small operator who grows weary of serving as a tax funnel.

Notwithstanding those fears, Livermore seems to have gone about their new business tax ordinance in a fair and intelligent manner. A committee of council members and business representatives spent six months, dilligently preparing a city code that would be equitable. It must be discouraging for that committee to now find, at the hour of formal adoption, their work challenged by those who may have honest questions, but who failed to ask them anytime during those long deliberations.

We recall Assemblyman Floyd Mori, addressing a recent Chamber of Commerce gathering in Livermore, cautioning the business sector that "the tide is swinging away from business as usual, and more toward consumer concerns." He cautioned the commercial sector to "stay alert, and informed. There are difficult days ahead for you."

The local trades and professions should heed that warning. But so too should the city bureaucracy be reminded that the best way to increase tax income from the business sector is to broaden the city's commercial base; and you don't do that by beating down the guy who is already here.

Rotating council

"Communicate!" That's the great cry these days. Heard particularly during the council election campaigns, and right after those new city servants are installed into office.

"We must close the communications' gap between the local government and the people." It is a promise never to be challenged. It is a fact never fulfilled.

Those of us who spend fulltime in the business of communicating can empathize with the city council's (or the school board, or the service district board) frustrations. Getting the message to the people is one mighty tough task. Getting them to respond is damned near impossible.

Take Pleasanton, for instance. No one has tried harder in their own way — than the city bureaucracy. For a while a "Mayor's and Council's Report" was prepared and distributed to some 95 percent of the city's dwellings, updating the people on everything from park improvement to tree removal. Good idea, but the people rarely commented, one way or the other.

Then a series of Pleasanton mayors and vice mayors began setting up "Saturday morning office hours" by which to "meet the people on a one - to - one basis." But if even one citizen showed up on a given Saturday morning, it was above the two - year average.

Now the city council of Pleasanton is going to try again. "Let's rotate one meeting each month throughout the neighborhoods." Another good idea, perhaps. But not if it is approached with the same old "We're here, where are you?" formula often tried, and always failed.

Somehow, we've got to make the business of running a community more exciting. Got to find a way to compete with Archie Bunker, get a rating at least on a par with girls' soccer.

KQED riding high

We add our own congratulations to those being heaped upon KQED this week for that Bay Area station's repeat triumph in the world of public broadcast television. Once again, Channel 9 has the highest prime time rating of any major outlet in the nation's public networks.

At a time when commercial television is sinking to an all-time low, and professional sports threatens to spread from weekend saturation to the prime evening hours, stations like Channel 9 are the last refuge for anything approaching a quality alternative.

FOCUS/Pageant detractors

The lockstep set

The beauty pageant season is fast approaching and with it comes those repressive little wretches lock-stepping to the tired tune of beauty - pageants - are - a - flesh - ogling - and - demeaning - old - ritual."

The newly-anointed Mayor of Livermore allegedly suggested to the chamber of commerce this past week that such events as the Maid Of Livermore Pageant be replaced by something with a little more decorum, something presumably that wouldn't demean young womenhood or treat them as just so much dehumanized commercial objects.

Not knowingly having dehumanized anybody lately, though I've taken pictures and written stories of the past three Maid of Pleasanton Pageants, I can't agree with Her Honor.

I find the prattlings of those denouncing such Maid pageants both contradictory and humourous.

If these people could look beyond the ends of their disjointed noses they'd find, if they truly have open minds, events that are 1) Open to young women if they choose to enter, 2) An honest opportunity for them to meet people and quite possibly gain poise and maturity, 3) Receive material rewards that can take the form of an expenses-paid trip to Southern California, benefits toward their future education or, at the least, a trophy so that they may someday remember a very happy experience.

I am admittedly prejudice on this entire score since I have observed as both newsman and spectator the overwhelming number of positive things that can accrue to young women participating in these types of pageants (Maid of Pleasanton and the other two Maid pageants in the valley).

I have found not a whit of evidence to support the tired old saw that beauty contests in general are "meat parades" filled with "brainless bathing beauties" being taken advantage of for commercial and goodness - knows - what - else reasons.

What I have discovered, after interviewing most of these young women (participating in the Maid of Pleasanton Pageant) over the past three years, is that my faith in young people has been exalted. Almost without exception, these girls (I can see the feminists bristling at that) have voluntarily stated they felt the pageants were an excellent way of meeting new friends.

A great majority have indicated they plan to go into public service or public contact types of jobs. What better way to gain poise by being presented to a large audience that is eager to laud the efforts of each and every participant.

What we have here, I believe, are the usual number of negative, uptight persons who in their view are "freeing" young women from tyrannys of yesteryear.

They're totally wrong as far as this writer is concerned, but they're entitled to their opinion.

Letters to the Times

Santos Road view

Editor, The Times:
Fate of Santos Ranch Road ...

Maintenance cost and lost for bond holders, I can see. But I sure hate to see a gate to close it. That's one of the few places left in the area, to get a good view of Pleasanton and the valley. I myself have taken a number of friends up there to show off the valley. A nice quiet place, away from the noise of the traffic below. Ideal for a picnic. I agree with the traffic risk and the liability to some one.

What a view, day or night, we are losing.

Pizza praise

Dear Times People:
We wish to thank you very much for the fine publicity our pizza night fundraiser for outdoor education received. We also wish to publicly thank Paquette's Cyclery for their donation of a Blitz dirt bike for our raffle; the bike created much excitement and added a great deal to the evening's success.

Thanks to all!

Postal barbs

Editor, The Times:
The on-going dialogue about the fence around the new post office in Pleasanton raises in my opinion some interesting questions.

The first set deals with the procedures used by the planning commission. The news reports lead me to believe that the details of the post office's fence are a surprise to the city and the commission. What input does the commission receive from the city staff?

Then, there are the questions relating to city versus county, city versus state, and city versus federal government standards. Are these relationships considered in the planning process? If not, then what is the function of the planning commission?

What planning actions have been taken to date by the planning commission to help reduce vandalism? Does the federal government know something our planning commission does not know? Are the "rap" sheet items in our local paper meaningless? Is the community living with outmoded ordinances?

Yes, it does seem that Planning Commission Chairman Wood has opened the can of planning worms. Perhaps, Mr. Editor, you may serve the public interest by helping catch them and put the lid back on this can.

Melvin D. Clark
Pleasanton

(Rather than replacing the lid, we would propose letting more of these "planning worms" out of the can. Mr. Clark raises good questions. Does Mr. Wood have the answers? — Editor)

Beep Ball boost

Editor, The Times:
I would like to express my sincere appreciation for the excellent article written by Mike Zampa on Beep baseball. I have never read an article that was so well written. It was informative, humorous, enthusiastic and thoroughly enjoyable. It is writers like Mr. Zampa that has made the Times a great paper. The title alone, "Shut up and Play Ball" was a stroke of genius.

I had people tell me that they were looking for an article on Beep baseball in the Times, but couldn't find it. They discovered it accidentally when the title caught their eye and aroused their curiosity as to what kind of an article that was. Again, thank you, Mike Zampa and the Times for your great cooperation.

BART's service

Editor, The Times:
A recent letter complained of BART's commute to the Valley. Problems arise when patrons transferring from BART trains (which operate on headways) to buses (which operate by timetable).

Most express bus drivers do wait a short time for passengers from out - bound trains once a train destination sign shows that a train is coming. In some cases they cannot tell — a problem for which we are seeking a solution.

Should a driver leave ahead of time (as was indicated) or take off while patrons are obviously trying to catch the bus, I would appreciate a call citing the date, time, bus number (if possible) and circumstances. Specific information like that could help us improve future service.

round the town

I have in hand a neat little book entitled "Power Secrets to Fast Money." Therein, one John V. Kamin proceeds to tell us "how to triple your living style, fast!"

I am not acquainted with Mr. Kamin. Never met the man. He only sends me a gratis copy of his book so that I might do what all newspaper people are apt to do — give his blessed book a free plug. But this is one reporter who is not so easily trapped by this shameless payola.

Besides, I don't need his advice. Take that chapter on "How to buy anything way below wholesale." I would like John V. Kamin to know that the lady in our house discovered that secret years ago.

"Remember that dress I told you about? ... the one in Magnin's that was going for $210?" I acknowledge, reluctantly, that I recollect something to the effect, along with appropriate portions of husbandly shock.

"Well," she exclaims, breathlessly, "I just happened to pass by that same department today and guess what? The same dress was marked down to $149.50! Just think, that's a saving of over sixty dollars! Why, that's practically less than wholesale."

Naturally, such a savings is not to be ignored. So the Magnin loss - leader is acquired. Not because the item is essential to her wardrobe, mind you. Rather because "I simply couldn't afford to pass up a savings like that!"

So Mr. Kamin is not telling me anything new with his "how to buy everything wholesale." Looking in her closet, I suspect we have indeed bought everything, wholesale or otherwise. But it is ours, and let the balance of supply and demand beware.

John Kamin also has a chapter on "fast money." Once again, he is trying to preach to an expert. "The Fastest Buck In The West." That is the title of a book, as yet unwritten, but that I plan to get around to one of these days. I have a drawer full of cash register slips and assorted statements to prove that not only does the buck fail to stop here, it hardly has time to slow down as it passes through.

It has gotten so a man has to spend a little on his own, just to keep up with the missus.

"I've been thinking about this matched set of Hogan irons," I announce casually of a sunny Sunday afternoon.

"Yes, I know you need new golf clubs and I really wish you'd get them," she replies, sympathetically. And in that brief, desperate pause which I have never been able to master, she slips in a wifely nuance.

"I called Bill Mortensen this morning." Bill is the master craftsman, the builder of this - n - that, the darling of the Old Town's distaff brigade. "He said he could probably start shingling the south side of the house Monday morning. It would certainly be a relief to get that job done."

It would indeed. And it will also be a relief to see that extra $300 that has been laying around in our checking account for almost a month now, given a fast sendoff. Scratch one set of Hogan irons, insert one shingled house, south side.

"Know Your Competition." That is another of Mr. Kamin's items of wisdom. "Know how to tell a shill," he further advises. He does not include wives of the opposite sex in that category, which just goes to show you how really unenlightened some experts are.

When she wants to enlighten me, on the facts of fiscal life, we take a little walk around Mortgage Manor.

"Don't you think Bill did a great job with the new shed roof?" she asks, brightly. Yes, and I especially like the new weather vane, with handsome cupola. Scratch one long weekend at Pebble Beach.

"Surprise!!" she exclaimed, when I returned home just the other evening. "Here's the new stainless steel sink you've been wanting in the play room for ever so long. I had Bill put it in this afternoon, as a sort of belated Christmas present."

Actually, it was not I who has been wanting the new sink for ever so long. And I sure as blazes wasn't counting on it as a late Christmas gift. But that's the little financial game we play at our place. Remind me to cancel the order for the new AC-DC radio, that one I had planned on for the baseball broadcasts, whilst frolicking in the garden this summer.

I had already resigned myself to no season tickets to the A's this year, again. That idea went down with last year's new patio, which we are still paying for this year.

And the trip to Alaska? That's sitting up there on the roof, $1500 in green asbestos shingles.

"I really hope we can take that trip to England this year," says I, plaintively. "We've been planning it for years now ..."

"Why, whatever makes you think we'd cancel an exciting trip like that," she says, whilst fingering the pealing wallpaper on the bedroom wall.

"Bankruptcy season bonanza!" is another chapter in John Kamin's book. The man may not be as stupid as I thought.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

Spring came to this green valley this morning.

This is the vernal equinox, officially the day when the joyous lass with flowers in her hair and songbirds surrounding her crosses the equator and enters the northern hemisphere.

For one precious day the earth will stand erect. Tomorrow it will tilt a trifle and we will be sliding through April, May and June into summer.

Don't be confused by the weather we enjoyed in January and some of February.

Those balmy days were no part of springtime. Old man winter was a little confused. Someone dropped a high pressure area off the western coast of this continent and locked the door.

Winter couldn't find the key so we were left in a never-never land somewhere between spring and winter.

The truth of the matter is that spring slipped into town a couple of days ahead of time.

She poked her head through the door last Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday but retreated before a sudden shower Thursday.

Friday she was back, sitting on the doorstep of the vernal equinox, giving us a taste of rain washed sunshine and bright blue skies.

There was a time when I greeted the coming of spring with a special joy I could find at no other time.

Each poppy was painted a little brighter by a golden sun, each lupin offered an exotic spear of color to its bed of grass in the meadow.

We wandered out to the old south quad at San Jose State to lie on the warm turf and examine the sky, heads pillowed in our hands.

Sooner or later we strolled around Washington Square to George Cole's Fountain of Youth and sipped a coke until someone said, "Let's cut class and go to the coast."

Then we piled into roadsters and rumbleseats and headed for Santa Cruz and the high waves winter had left near the mouth of the San Lorenzo River.

We learned then, as we discovered each year, spring did not mean the ocean was any warmer, but we braved the cold surf and swam until our long idle muscles twinged and we had to come in to avoid cramps.

Spring evenings we went to Saturday dances, the girls in long formal dresses which were scanty on top and voluminous at the bottom, the fellowx in tuxedos.

Then we rode through moonlit nights to a shaded grove, a cliff overlooking the beach or a lofty parking lot we called the circle high above the San Jose Country Club.

We rode with the tops down in our Model A Ford roadsters, a guy and girl in the front seat, a guy and a girl in the rumbleseat, watching the sky and the lights or the water, hoping the night would never end and never thought, not for a minute, about ever growing old.

Sometimes we drank beer at Marty's Place or Johnny Filice's place off the Monterey Road and while we drank we sang bawdy songs and ballads like the Whiffenpoof Song.

Those parties were restricted to the nights when the girls were doing something else and we couldn't get a date because no respectable lass would be caught drinking at Marty's and dammned few at Johnny's place.

Sometimes we drove down the highway to George's Place, singing the rawest verses of Casey Jones and the Red Headed Woman while we went and the wind was warm while if riffled our hair and whipped our neckties back, arrow straight, to the rear.

Weekdays we eased out the side door of the Spartan Daily office and lounged on the turf in the South Quad, discussing the imponderable, eternal problems of youth and watching the girls go by, the lovely girls who loved to be called girls and did a very good job of calling attention to their exquisite sex.

There were beach parties and picnics at Alum Rock Park and the inevitable spontaneous trips to the beach which we managed to time so that we did not exceed the legal maximum number of absences from any class.

Fridays we went to Navelet's Flower Shop at San Carlos and Race Street and bought gardenia corsages for our girl friends which were standard equipment for formal dates.

We played and laughed and studied through springtime until the middle of June just before the summer solstice.

Then school was out and it was time to line up in front of the cannery and wait for a job so we could earn the money to laugh and play and study through the next school year.

Spring was over, but not forgotten, not then, not ever, not even when she returned the next year as, Thank God, she does each March 21.

Jim: "We haven't discussed the bridge proverbs such as 'second hand low' for some time."

Oswald: "Most of these go way back to whist. The reason second hand usually plays low is that his higher cards can usually be effective later on in the play. Thus, he only plays high second hand when he has some really good reason to make the play.

Jim: "In today's hand South should play dummy's queen of hearts immediately. It won't have any value at all later on, but may just win that first trick."

Oswald: "This time it does and South is on easy street. If he takes a diamond finesse against East, he is sure of eleven tricks. If he tries it the other way, he will only score ten."

Jim: "If East produces the king of hearts, South can run five clubs and then go after diamonds. This time a wrong guess will cost him his contract."

Ask the Jacobys

We have had several more questions about the bonus honors in rubber and party bridge.

The answer is that it is awarded to the side of the player who holds the honors whether he is declarer, dummy or a defender.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today, you may find another's philosophical outlook in conflict with yours. Solutions will not be found in a heated exchange.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today, try not to interfere in matters not directly concerned with you. You may be asking for something that could be avoided.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Select companions today whose aims coincide with yours. Associates whose views are not in harmony could prove frustrating.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Tasks that you hoped another would attend to today may be left undone. Rely more on yourself than your helpmates.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't take unnecessary risks on another's ideas today, especially if this person has bungled things in the past. Keep his track record in mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your domestic tranquility could be disrupted today if you bring up old, controversial issues. Let sleeping dogs lie.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 Oct 23) To get others to cooperate today, try making suggestions rather than commands. Pushing too hard could have a reverse effect.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If it's necessary to make some hasty repairs around home today, be sure to use the proper tools for each job.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Enjoy yourself today, but don't overindulge in the good things of life. Practice moderation in all areas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may have to make some adjustments in your plans today in order to suit someone else. Don't make too big a thing of it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Normally you are rather easygoing, but today you could be trifle too insistent upon having your own way.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't be tempted today to spend more than you should for things you feel might impress others. People like you the way you are.

Dublin gets first win

Dublin High School's Robin Sherwood apparently has found the switch from a soccer ball to a bat and glove quite easy if his performance in Friday's Gael baseball game with Pacifica is any indication.

The stocky athlete banged two triples and a double to drive in three runs and lead the Gaels to a 11-3 thrashing of the vistors from West Pittsburg.

It was Dublin's first non-league victory of the season against two defeats.

Sherwood was one of the best athletes in the EBAL soccer league this past winter and his performance Friday gave some indication he could be a star on the diamond this spring.

However, Sherwood was not the only star for Dublin Friday. Winning pitcher Jerry Puertas went five strong innings, allowing just three hits and striking out five batters. He was relieved by Rich Jensen in the sixth. Jensen pitched a fine game himself, striking out four batters," and giving up two hits.

Dublin scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed in the contest. Shortstop Mike Laudenbach started the inning with a single and scored on Sherwood's booming triple to center field. Two more base hits brought Sherwood in with the third run.

Pacifica got its first run in the second on a home run by pitcher Larry Hard. However, the Gaels came back in their half of the second with a run on doubles by Allan Schaut and Sherwood.

The Gaels added one run in the third, one in the fifth and five in the sixth. The five-run burst in the sixth was highlighted by five walks to Gael batters.

Pacifica got single runs in the fifth and sixth on four hits. Otherwise Puertas and Jensen throttled the Spartans completely. Mistakes plagued the Pacifica pitchers as they gave up six walks to Dublin. Hard started for the Spartans and struck out nine batters and walked just two. He gave up nine hits, however.

Sam Rothchild replaced Hard in the sixth and gave up three hits and six runs in his brief stint.

Dublin coach Tom Mullican was subdued about his team's first victory this season.

"We didn't really play that well," he said quietly. "Probably the best thing we did was hit the ball well."

That in itself was a major improvement over the Gaels' 3-1 defeat at the hands of Fremont Tuesday. If Sherwood and his mates continue to hit the ball as they did against Pacifica it could be a more interesting season for Dublin fans.

Foreman keeps Valley home

George Foreman will keep his Livermore address. Even if his focus of operations is shifting to a 52-acre ranch in East Texas.

Reports that the quarter-million dollar spread on Mines Road is up for sale are untrue, say Robert "Sonny" Foreman, the former heavyweight champion's brother, and caretaker of the lavish home.

George will be moving to the newly built ranch in Marshall, Tex., town of his birth, but he'll retain the Livermore house as well as one in Beverly Hills. At least that's the way it looks to Foreman's brother.

"I know less about these things than everybody else," Sonny said from the driveway of George's Livermore residence. "But he likes it too well here."

The elder Foreman swept his hand against a panorama of springtime foothills. They looked like furrowed angelfood glazed in lime.

"California," he sighed. "This is it."

That was the way George Foreman felt two years ago when he purchased his Livermore home from a successful contractor. But since knocking out Ron Lyle in a comeback fight last January, Foreman has been working on the big Texas spread just 250 miles from his mother's home in Houston.

It will be his base of operations, according to reports, for an upcoming fight with Joe Frazier. The two signed just last Thursday for a rematch of their Jan. 22, 1973 title bout in Kingston, Jamaica.

George spoke to his brother from New York City Friday morning, indicating he'll return to Livermore next week for the first time in two months.

Reports in the San Francisco Chronicle have claimed that Foreman wants to leave California because of tax laws here.

Last week it said that his Livermore home is on the market.

"He's still got his gym here though," points out Sonny, "and he wouldn't hold on to that if he was going to move."

The former champ's brother said one of the reasons for the shift to Texas was the large menagerie of animals George keeps. Neighbors have complained, Sonny says, so Foreman will ship them to the ranch.

Foreman and Frazier are scheduled to meet late this spring. George first gained the title by destroying Frazier in round two of their scheduled 15-round championship fight.

Foreman hopes a victory over Frazier will gain him an opportunity to win back the crown from Muhammad Ali.

There is no definite site for Foreman-Frazier, but it will probably be at Madison Square Garden. The other possible setting is Caesars Palace where Foreman outlasted Lyle in their brutal slugfest two months ago.

Davidson takes freestyle

Dana Davidson of NorCal qualified for the National AAU swimming championships by winning the seniors' women's 200-yard freestyle at the regional qualifying meet at Ohlone College in Fremont yesterday.

In winning the freestyle, Dana recorded a 1:53.8 clocking and set a new 11-12 girls' age group record.

Dana will be in action again today at Ohlone along with teammates Pat Price, Jan Davidson and Kathy Thompson.

The girls will attempt to qualify in the 100-yard freestyle, 400-freestyle relay and 800-freestyle relay.

NorCal coach Bill Radley thinks both Jan and Dana have excellent chances of making the nationals in the 100-yard freestyle.

"I think they both are capable of making the qualifying time easily," he admitted. "Some of the times today (Saturday) in the senior women's division were better than ninety percent of the high school boys' varsity races."

The AAU nationals will be held April 1-4 in Long Beach.

Stracey keeps title

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — John Stracey of Britain stopped Hedgemon Lewis of Los Angeles in the 10th round Saturday night and retained the World Boxing Council welterweight title.

Lewis, 30, finished the fight looking dazed and on the point of exhaustion after taking a terrible battering from the aggressive 25 - year - old Englishman.

British referee Harry Gibbs stepped in and stopped the fight after 1 minute 25 seconds of the 10th round to save Lewis from further punishment. It was his third unsuccessful attempt to win the welterweight title. He previously lost twice to Jose Napoles before Stracey beat Napoles for the crown.

A partisan crowd of 8,000 waved Union Jacks and roared for Stracey at Wembley Empire Pool.

Washington standout as Bruins breeze

sports

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Forward Richard Washington led fifth - ranked UCLA on a 12-0 scoring burst late in the game Saturday and the Bruins took another step toward defense of their NCAA basketball title with a 82-66 victory over Arizona in the West Regional tournament.

The 6 - foot - 10 Washington led the 26-4 Bruins with 22 points, including two baskets and an assist during the six - minute span in which the Bruins broke a 58-58 tie to lead 70-58 with just 2:11 to play.

UCLA led by three, 38-35 at intermission, but the Wildcats stayed close on Herman Harris' long - range jump shots and some fine offensive rebounding by 6-8 Al Fleming.

Harris' bomb from the left corner with 13 minutes to play cut UCLA's margin to just 50-49 but UCLA's quick sophomore guard Raymond Townsend connected for a key basket to extend the margin to three once again.

Then, Bob Elliott and Harris combined to give the Wildcats a 54-54 tie and Arizona knotted the score again at 58 with 8:15 to go on Elliott's short jump shot in the key.

The Bruins then took over.

Center Ralph Drollinger broke the tie with a free throw, young center David Greenwood fed Washington for a 10-foot jump shot and Townsend hit Marques Johnson with a sizzling pass for a lay-in.

Washington then connected on a short jump shot and 30 seconds later passed to Johnson for another lay-in that made the score 67-58.

A basket that appeared to hurt Arizona's morale the most, however, came at 3:02 to play when Townsend tossed one in from 22 feet out to give the Bruins an 11-point advantage.

The 15th-ranked Wildcats were led by Harris with 18 and forwards Phil Taylor and Fleming with 14 apiece. Townsend had 16 for the Bruins.

Semkiw, Florant highlight meet

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A 65 - foot - 5 - inch shot put by Ron Semkiw of San Jose State and a 13.8-second time by Carl Florant of California in the 110-meter high hurdles highlighted individual performances in Saturday's second annual Stanford Relays.

No official team scores were kept, but an unofficial tally showed San Jose's Spartans on top with 49 points to 41 for Stanford, 32 for Hayward State, 29 for Cal and 18 for Idaho State. Chico State and Sacramento State had one each.

Cal's mile relay team clipped five seconds off its previous best mark with a 3:09.9, with James Robinson running a 46.7 anchor leg against 46.8 for James Lofton of Stanford which took second with 3:10.8. Other members of the Bears' winning team were Paul Wallace, Wesley Walker and Cirilo Morgan.

Lofton won the long jump with 24-8, and another excellent effort was a discus throw of 182-4 by Mike Weeks of San Jose.

The San Jose Spartans and Stanford Cardinals each won five events of the 19 events and tied in the 400-meter relay. In 15 events the marks of last year's initial meet were bettered.

Nearly 200 athletes from 13 area schools participated in the relays, attended by 8,500. Los Altos dominated the prep division of the meet, finishing first or second in 11 of the 12 events and totaling 45 points to 25 for second - place Carlmont.

Greg Allio led the Wolves with an outstanding 36. However, Bill Thomas was the only other San Ramon player who should under 45. He had a 42.

The match was orginally scheduled for Thursday but was delayed because of rain.

Majors seek Toronto

NEW YORK (AP) — The American league voted Saturday to expand to Toronto for 1977 and the National League immediately set up a possible collision course by saying it would actively consider expansion to the same city for the same season.

Presidents Lee MacPhail of the American League and Chub Feeney of the National League announced their separate actions at the conclusion of the joint meeting of the 24 major league owners.

"The American League has declared its intention to expand to Toronto in 1977 and so advised the National League and the commissioner in a joint meeting," MacPhail said.

Then Feeney disclosed the National League's plans, saying his league will actively consider expansion for 1977 and, if it adopts expansion, Toronto will be included.

The National League meeting has been recessed, but "it can be reopened on a moment's notice," said Feeney.

He said that should the National League decide to move to Toronto "the city would have to decide which league it wants."

The American League, which has already voted to expand to Seattle for 1977, requires a three - quarter majority to approve a new team. "Our vote was 11-1," said MacPhail, who declined to identify the dissenting team.

MacPhail refused to set a price for a Toronto franchise but the price for Seattle was $6.3 million.

The sequence in Saturday's meeting went this way:

After a joint session to consider baseball's difficult labor crisis, the two leagues met in separate sessions. It was at that time that the American League decided to expand.

At the joint meeting that followed, the AL advised Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the National League of its plans.

Then the NL met and, in another joint meeting, advised the AL and the commissioner of its continuing interest in Toronto.

Commissioner Kuhn said he was not upset over both leagues aiming for the same city.

Toronto originally thought it had a franchise when the San Francisco Giants ownership accepted a bid in principle to purchase that club. That deal fell through when the Giants were purchased, instead, by local interests and kept in San Francisco. Toronto would be a prime target for the National League because of the natural rivalry it offers for the Montreal Expos, currently the only non - United States team in major league baseball.

If the American League gets Toronto, there would not be any chance to play Montreal because baseball, at the present time, does not have interleague play. The American League is said to favor it, while the National League is opposed.

Ealier Saturday, the Player Relations Committee, of which Feeney and MacPhail are both members, formally withdrew their "best and final" offer to the Players Association in the continuing labor conflict.

Dons, SR break records

SAN LEANDRO — San Ramon and Amador each picked up record-breaking first places to highlight the EBAL's performances at the Pacific Swimming Invitational yesterday.

The Wolves chopped two full seconds off the old record in the three-man 150-yard backstroke relay with a 1:21.1 clocking. Ironcially, the old record was also held by the Wolves. Members of the present team included Mark Sucksdorf, Tim Torchiara and Danny Cunningham.

Amador's record came in the three-man 150-yard breaststroke relay where the Dons clocked a 1:32.9 win. The old mark was set by Campolindo in 1973. Brian Story, John Gilbert and Bill Burns made up the team.

"I felt we had a chance to finish in the top three in the event," admitted Amador mentor Chuck Volonte. "However, I din't know we would do this good. Our guys really did a great job."

Although Granada's swimmers failed to bring home any first-place medals they did show their over-all overall strength.

All-American Chris Hoenig swam a great last leg to gave the Matadors second place in the four-man 850-yard progessive relay. San Rafael won the event with a meet record clocking of 8:01.8. Granada finished with a 8:02.9 clocking.

The Matadors also finished second in the four-man 400-yard individual medley relay with a 4:01.4 clocking. Dave Johanson, Steve Ruffner, Dave Eckard and Hoenig made up the team. San Rafael won that event with a brillant 3:56.7 clocking, over four seconds faster than the previous record set by Campolindo.

Dublin sent a four-man squad of Mark Steinhouff, Victor Hinjosa, Kevin McKenna and Glenn Hoxie to the invitational and came away with three medals. The Gaels nabbed second in the four-man 200-yard freestyle with a 1:35.0 clocking. Dublin also took third in the progessive relay (8:17.2) and fourth in the individual medley (4:09.3).

Csonka wants Miami

MIAMI (AP) — After eight years and trips through two football leagues, the backfield tandem of Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick is nearing an end.

Csonka says he'd be glad —for $300,000 a year—to return to the Miami Dolphins. But Kiick is looking elsewhere.

"After eight years, I'll miss being around Larry," Kiick said from his Miami home. "It was almost like being married to him."

On Friday, John Bassett, the owner of the Memphis franchise in the now-defunct World Football League, released the pair and fellow former Dolphin Paul Warfield. The action came after the National Football League refused to accept Bassett's Southmen as an expansion team for 1976.

Less than two years ago, it was announced that the trio as defecting from the Dolphins for a reported $3.6-million package.

Csonka's agent, Ed Keating, said he would give the Dolphins first crack at the fullback who led them to two Super Bowl titles—but he added pointedly: "I'm somewhat pessimistic over the chances of Larry winding up in Miami. Basically, the Dolphins already have a rather substantial payroll."

"We've got a figure we're sure we can get," Csonka said. "I'm not going to pull any bones about it. If we can get that figure, fine.

I'd like nothing better than to play in Miami, where I have a lot of friends ... But I'm not going to bicker back and forth. We have other teams interested and willing to meet our price."

Coach Don Shula said the Dolphins would discuss the estimated $300,000 price tag with Csonka and his agent. "We, of course, would be interested in talking to Larry," Shula said. "Warfield has indicated he would like to finish out his playing years in Cleveland, where his home is. We've pretty much replaced Kiick."

Kiick said he was aware of the situation in Miami. "I don't think Shula's interested in getting me back, and that's all right," he said. "We had our differences, but I respect him. He knows he's got to start building again. In fact, he's already started."

Hoenig stars Mats beaten

Granada High School's swimming team took a trip to the West Bay Friday afternoon and fell 79-52 to a powerful Serra of San Mateo squad.

Despite the loss, Matador ace Chris Hoenig swam a sizzling 1:59.8 in the 200-yard individual medley for a personal best and a school record. Hoenig also tied for first in the 100 freestyle with a 50.5 clocking.

Other performances by the Matadors included a 1:06.5 clocking by Dave Eckard in the 100-breaststroke and a fine 1:48.7 time by the medley relay team.

Granada coach Gus DeGara, who once coached at Serra, admitted the Padres were strong.

"They (Serra) won the Central Coast Section title several times when I was there," he said. "They were ranked first in the nation in 1970 and third in 1972."

Cal swimmers blast Swett

It won't be too long now until backers of EBAL swimming will be calling California High School's swimming program, "Carroll's Heroes."

Unlike the tube series, Hogans Heroes, coach Tom Carroll of the Grizzlies swim team has but 13 lads to work from this spring. However, California gained a decision from John Swett Friday in Olympic Pool in San Ramon.

Final score of the quick match, 93-61. The Grizzlies frosh-soph weren't as fortunate, though losing by a 57-30 count.

Apparently Cal has it all going for them. A sparkling, clear pool — concievably tops in the Bay Area and excellent facilities.

Depth, however will play a major factor in Cal's success against clubs twice, three, four, even five times the size of Carroll's inexperienced crew.

"We looked pretty good today," said Carroll. "There were four who swam for us today who had never swam competitively before. And they did well."

Of the scheduled 11 events, California won six, an effort also achieved against Mt. Diablo, though the Red Devils depth accounted for victory.

Leading the current for Cal were Jay Jones, Jeff Jones, Ray Alanzo, Mike Murphy, Jeff Fredericks, and Dave Smith.

Jay and Jeff led and anchored the Grizzlies winning 200 medley relay team to a 1.51.4 clocking; the former also winning the 200 IM in 2.14.1, and the 100 back at 1.00.5. Jeff took the 50 free at 24.9, and was third in the 100 free.

Alanzo contributed to the 200 medley relay and was second in the IM. Murphy, meanwhile swam number three on the medley relay and was runnerup in the 200 and 100 free's.

Fredericks won the 100 fly at 1.09.5.

John Swett's Dave Malin won the 200 free, 1.50.4., 100 free, 51.7, and 500 free, 5.47.3.

Frosh-Soph wise, the Grizzlies' Carlos Reis won the 50 and 100 free in 30.2, and 1.10.9.

Cal meets Granada Wednesday at Olympic Pool at 3:30 p.m.

Heinz Gewing, assistant superintendent, reported on the new collective bargaining bill (SB 160). Discussion dealt with provisions of the bill, representation of employee groups, and information which would be available to the public for their consideration and reaction.

Amador offers art classes

The Amador Valley AdultSchool will be offering over 20 art classes this quarter with classes slated to get underway Monday night.

Included in the offerings are ceramics, sculpture, painting, weaving, stitchery, tole painting, jewelry, and stained glass.

Persons interested in taking an Amador Adult Education class may register at the first meeting.

Spring quarter art students will be offered the unique experience of participating in the adult school's first annual Art Show on June 5 and 6 at the Pleasanton Cultural Arts Center on Black Avenue.

The show will include the works of the teachers and students and many items will be for sale. The Art Show will enable the different art classes to see what type of work is going on in other related areas in art and will provide a learning experience for the students in the preparation of items for a show and marketing ideas for novices.

Information on Amador Adult Education classes beginning this coming week may be had by calling the District Educational Center, 462-5500, and asking for the Adult Education office.

Top speaker

Mike Crateau, sponsored by the Pleasanton Lions Club, is the speech contest winner at the Zone level of local Lion Clubs. Crateau is a senior at Amador Valley High. Crateau will now compete at the Regional level on Saturday, March 27 at Castro Valley Community Center, Lake Chabot Road at 7:30 p.m. Judges for the Zone level were Jim Muldrin, Mike Connally and Susan Hagler. George Enos, district deputy govenor from the Livermore Lions Club congratulates Crateau after presenting him with a plaque.

Ann Landers Comments on twins

Dear Ann: Ha! I finally gotcha! I've been waiting a long time to nail you and today was the day. I refer to your reply to the mother of identical twins.

Since I am the mother of identical twins, I consider myself something of an expert. I never felt that strangers who stopped me on the street were "picking my kids to pieces."

They were admiring and congratulating me for having been the recipient of a rare gift from God. You should have told her to be proud that people cared enough to look for identifying characteristics.

She ought to love every minute of it. All too soon her twins will be grown and she'll miss the glorious days when she took them out and showed them off. — New Orleans

Dear N.O.: You may be the mother of identical twins, but I AM an identical twin and can report first-hand what it's like to be victimized by well-meaning strangers who are constantly examining twins for "differences" and verbalizing their "discoveries."

It's hard on the twin who doesn't have the dimples or the prettier head of hair, or the one who's slightly plumper.

I felt "fat" as a child (although I wasn't really) because my twin was smaller. This is what comparisons by strangers can do.

My original advice still stands. The mother of twins should permit NO comparisons whatever. Someone always suffers.

The next letter makes the point far better than I. Please read it.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 15 years old and an "identical twin," which is what a lot of ignorant people call us even though my sister and I are not identical at all.

If those gawkers would only take the time to look at us they would see many differences. We look a lot alike but we aren't carbon copies of each other.

I was glad when you told off the mother of twins who let her children get picked to pieces by strangers on the street. (Sometimes relatives do the same thing and I believe they should be told off, too.)

People start out by just looking (like we were freaks or something), then they begin to make remarks like, "That one has frizzier hair," or, "This one's nose is wider."

I hope your readers learned something when you told them never to compare one twin with the other. They might not realize it but they are adding fuel to a fire that is already too hot. — An Original, Not A Xerox

Dear Original: Now that the mother has heard from two identical twins (you and me), let's hope she gets the picture. If she doesn't, perhaps we've helped to enlighten other mothers who were doubly blessed.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is being written by 10 students in the ninth grade of a school in Illinois.

A certain teacher has the habit of saying "at this point in time" whenever he opens his mouth. This phrase, as you know, came out of the Watergate hearings and we've all heard it so often we are ready to toss our cookies.

It's like a jab in the ear with a sharp stick. Please help us wise this teacher up without endangering our grades. — Plenty Anonymous

Dear Plenty: Mail this column to "Mr. Jab In The Ear," and I'll bet you'll notice a change. Some people are totally unaware of a repetitive speech pattern until it is brought to their attention.

Ney Fialkow, Jeni Mourouzi and Harry Sweet of Dublin High.

She may be back in September

Jeni's Dublin visit merely a prelude

For Jeni Mourouzi of Greece, her visit to Dublin is really a prelude to perhaps a longer stay starting next September.

A resident of the second largest city in that basis - of - all civilization country, Jeni came to the United States and Dublin under the auspices of Youth For Understanding.

She, along with Ney Fialkow, a native of Sao Leopoldo in Brazil, are living with Dublin area families and attending classes at Dublin High.

Jeni will be returning to her native land in July but will return to this area next September to take a course in business data processing at Chabot College. Another major reason for returning is the lure of going on tour with the Dublin High choir next fall.

Ney, an extremely - talented pianist who hopes to be a psychiatrict some day, comes from the most southern state in Brazil.

He knew quite a bit about "the states" before arriving as a brother and sister had visited in the country earlier. He resides in a city about the size of Concord, approximately 70,000 population, and will continue his studies at a music conservatory when he returns in mid-July.

Ney has played the piano for 10 years.

He notes that English is a required language to learn in his native country — and has been such since 1968.

Both feel the school system here presents the biggest cultural difference between their respective countries and the U.S.

They said there seems to be more freedom here in what courses a student may take.

In Greece, Jeni comments, students take strictly academic courses in high school and go to school from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Report 580 widening nearly 25% finished

Nearly one-fourth of the 6.6 mile, phase I widening of Interstate 580 west of Foothill Road has been completed, State transportation officials announced this week.

The detour laden, two lane thoroughfare that funnels traffic from the valley to the bay basin will be widened to six lanes with a seventh, "trucks only" lane on the west bound incline above Dublin.

The inside lanes in both directions will be reserved for buses and carpools on weekdays between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. The six lanes will be open to all traffic on weekends.

Under an agreement hammered out last spring, the proposed eight lane freeway was reduced to six lanes with a rapid transit corridor in the center. That corridor can be used for a Bay Area Rapid Transit rail extension or direct bus service.

CalTrans engineers also designed eight foot shoulders to separate the inside, three passenger "carpool" lanes from regular traffic.

A similar lane recently was opened on one of Los Angeles' most heavily traveled freeways. The innovation has been met with mixed reactions.

The $34 million phase one portion is scheduled for completion in mid-1979. The entire $110 million project, which will widen the freeway all the way to Hayward, should be finished in 1982.

Former Pleasanton Mayor and current Zone 7 candidate Ed Kinney recently has spoken for the "Friends of I-580," a group wanting to overturn last year's agreement that cut the proposed widening from eight to six lanes.

While no formal action has been taken, the group has threatened to take the settlement to court.

Under terms of that agreement, the freeway still may be widened to eight lanes if traffic warrants it in 1982.
